PwC change framework

Your best-fit change program, powered by the right change management methodology, can:

- Assess the level of impact and support stakeholders have on the needed change
- Engage the right leaders and give them opportunities to develop and support the transition and its long-term goals and implications
- Determine the level and style of communications that will engage all your stakeholders throughout the change
- Define all legacy cultures and develop tactics and implementation plans to mobilize people to work together effectively
- Use performance and talent management techniques to control employee costs and risks and promote the behaviors that will support your business goals
- Align HR strategies with your business strategy to navigate people through change
- Develop tangible processes and deliverables to manage people fairly, honestly, and positively
